Offer to Nixon Is Denied By Magazine

Post 9/7/74

The Reader's Digest denied yesterday that former President Nixon has been offered $100,000 a year to serve as a consulting editor. A story in yesterday's Washington Post said that Mr. Nixon is believed to have received such an offer.

A statement by Hobart Lewis, editor in chief of Reader's Digest said:

"Reader's Digest has at the present time no contractual agreement nor any plan for an agreement with former President Nixon to write articles or [illegible] to act as a consult-